September Treasury:

The Treasury Report was presented by Brandy Hampton. Items of note were September transactions for Staff Senate name tags and new shirt from Staff Senate account. Nikki Turner approved minutes.

New Business:

- a. David Hakenewerth, Energy Conservation Plan: Mr. Hakenewerth had commitments and could not attend meeting.
- Kasey Eakins Howling for United Way: The campaign is now live and website can be found at www.astate.edu/unitedway links are available for payroll deduction and lump sum donation via PayPal. Hosting Howloween Harvest on October 30th from 11:30am 1:30pm on the Heritage Lawn. Look for information on the A-State Digest for some of the activities: Pumpkin Carving Contest, Karaoke, Chili-Cook-Off, and other activities. This is a campus wide event. Shirts will be available for $10, contact Kasey Eakins, Lori Win, Kristy Valentine, or Shauna Carrier. Orders for shirts need to be made by October 23rd for the event and the last day to order shirts is October 30th. You can also order shirts online make checks payable to the ASU Foundation. There will be a balloon launch November 13th.
- c. Santa's Wolves Update Nikki Turner: Will be selling caramel apples and baked goods at the Benefits Fair so please bring cash to the Benefits Fair. Will also have a booth at Lil Bit of Christmas where they will be selling baked goods and caramel apples. Nomination forms for Santa's Wolves will go out online at the beginning of November. Deadlines for applications is November 17th.

d. Staff Appreciation Committee - Nikki Turner: Received a call regarding Staff Appreciation Week. The Executive Committee talked about what could be done to show staff they are appreciated. Currently there are staff appreciation awards, staff picnic and staff appreciation football game. Would like to create a Staff Appreciation Committee that is not just open to senators but throughout the campus. Kasey Eakins will head it up, Shane Copeland is also on the committee and they will start to put committee together. If you are interested email Nikki Turner. Committee may try looking at other sporting events for staff appreciation and other ways to be more proactive in showing staff how much they are appreciated. The Staff Appreciation Football Game is scheduled for December 5th. Forms will go out next week for ordering shirts/sweatshirts, tickets to the game and will come with a food voucher.

Report from the President and Open Discussion:

a. Executive Committee and Lori Winn are requesting feedback regarding retirement loans. Currently, you can take out loans and withdrawals as much as you want. Most universities have restrictions on loans and withdrawals on retirement funds. Would like feedback on limiting inservice withdrawals and loans a person can take out. As it is now, you can take out multiple loans and default on them leaving people without funds to retire. Would like to limit the number of loans you can take out. If you default on one loan you can't take out another. Limiting withdrawals does not count if it is for emergency funds to cover medical costs or tuition. Would like to hear opinions in what would be the most fair for employees (information coming from Lofton). As of now there are no limitations.

*Loretta Fulton: Why are we policing this? Nikki Turner: This is causing hardships when people are trying to retire. Also there are more administration fees, it's expensive to process – it does cost A-State money.

*Jarrod Locke: Why is it costing A-State? It should just cost the person taking out the loan. Loretta Fulton: If anything, the fees should be paid by the person taking out the loans. Scottie Wheat: A-State does not restrict you from taking your investment, you can only take out what you have. A-State does pay into it so it may also be costing them their investment. Randy Martin: Have retirement is a requirement to work here. People need that money, I don't think you should shut them down from getting it if it is needed, it is their investment. I don't see an issue with it. Locke: There is good and bad to both parts. Nikki Turner: It shows that females take out multiple loans. Lori Winn talked about having a financial advisor come in and talk to just women since they take these loans out the most. How can we educate our staff? Fulton: It is more women than men because single mothers need it to live on. Turner: You can still take out emergency loans. Martin: I can see someone making $16,000 a year how they would need to take out these loans, like for Christmas. Hope Phillips: I don't see why your employer should dictate how you handle your money. Martin: They would rather pay the tax penalty then pay it back because the money is always needed. Steven Brown: I know people who have taken these loans out and can't retire but they needed the money. They are adults and need to make good decisions. Wheat: An educational program would be better than restricting it.

*Nikki Turner: If you think of something later, please email me at anturner@astate.edu and I will get it to Lori soon.

Open discussion:

- a. None at this time.
- b. Hope Phillips motioned to adjourn. Elaine Poynter seconded.
- c. Meeting adjourned at 2:45pm
